

680 Boys At Boy Scout Camporee

36 TROOPS PARTICIPATE IN THREE-DAY CONCLAVE

Some 680 Boy Scouts comprising 36 Troops, attended the annual three-day Camporee of the Summer Trails Council in Grayling, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Grayling Winter Sports park was in perfect shape to receive the young visitors and as early as Thursday afternoon there were troops arriving and setting up tents. By Saturday the place was a regular tented village with the army of scouts busy with camp activities. They came from five districts with 15 full troops and their leaders from the Bay district. Troops from Pigeon, Bad Axe and Vassar represented the Thumb district; Prescott, West Branch, Rose City, Gaylord, Vanderbilt and Grayling represented the Northwest district and the Lakeshore district had troops from Alpena, Curran, Harrisville and Oscoda. There were three troops from Midland district with other troops from that vicinity. Some of them arrived by automobile, while others came in buses chartered for them.

As each Troop arrived they registered at one of the buildings at the park, that was set up into an administration building. There they were directed to camp sites that were staked out the day previous and then camp life began in earnest with the boys busy pitching tents and doing the many other duties required. Scouts cooked their own meals in the open and although the weather was very inclement during all three days the fellows didn't seem to mind it.

Friday after the evening meal a campfire was held with a program consisting of stunts put on by the troops from each of the five districts. Many people from Grayling drove out to watch the evening's performance.

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock memorial services were held for Francis A. (Jerry) Reagan, whose grave is in Elmwood cemetery. The 680 scouts headed by Grayling American Legion Drum & Bugle corps and the School band marched to the cemetery. This was a beautiful sight and there a large crowd of citizens joined them. Francis Reagan was a former scout executive of the Summer Trails Council; during his life he gave much of his time to the service of youth and was well known in scouting circles. A marker as a token of tribute was placed on his grave, and Charles Moore of Grayling gave a beautiful eulogy, portraying his unselfish service to boys. "Jerry" as he was familiarly known, was born in Bay City, on March 4, 1892 and his boyhood was spent there and later the family came to Grayling where he graduated from Grayling High school. He had seen active service in the U. S. Army during the World War, following which he steadily failed in health until he passed away in 1938 following an operation. While the scouts were in town that morning many availed themselves of visits to the Hartwick Pines and others to Grayling Fish Hatchery.

Featuring the campfire program Saturday evening was the awarding of Eagle badges, scouting's highest honor, to William N. Smith of Troop No. 5 and Jack Hopperoff, of Troop No. 22, both of Bay City. Also highlighting the evening was the "March of Boyhood" pageant, with all troops participating. The pageant was closed with a huge formation of the scouts and all singing the Star Spangled Banner, with the Grayling High School band furnishing the music.

Sunday morning a church service was held in camp and later several truckloads of boys attended church in Grayling. After preparing their own dinner the boys began to break camp and each camp was inspected and camping certificates awarded. In the afternoon Boy Scout troop No. 22, of Bay City was awarded the gold trophy for the best work in all phases of camp life. This completed the three-day Camporee of the Summer Trails Council in Grayling, until 1940 when the Camporee will be held in Alpena on invitation by the Alpena Chamber of Commerce.

Late in the afternoon the boys loaded their tents and equipment on the trucks and buses and started for their homes, all having enjoyed the three days together, despite the cold weather Friday and Saturday. A few suffered stomach aches from over-indulgence in hot dogs and pop but the general health of the crew was excellent. Much credit for the splendid arrangements and organizing the affair goes to the committees and their leaders.

Capt. Walter A. Maxwell, USMC, commander of Camp Hartwick Pines, was general chairman of all committees, and was aided by the following chairmen: Bernard Schwerdt, of Camp Hartwick Pines, was chairman of the camping layout and equipment committee; Herbert Rowland, of Grayling, chairman of the program committee; Norman E. Butler, of Grayling, head of the business committee; Luther Lamb, of Bad Axe, head of the commissioners' staff; and chairman of the general council camporee committee was Holger W. Peterson, of Grayling.

Summer 'n' Fishin' 'n' Stuff

Angleworms... twisted pin... piece of string... willow branch. It all spells summer, which makes its official bow to North America on June 22.

E. M. T. A. CHATTER COLUMN SAYS:

The AuSable River must have plenty of "punch" to attract Jack Dempsey for several days' fishing and canoeing.

Glenn F. Penrod of Grayling has about completed six cottages and four cabins. Located on the banks of the AuSable, the buildings are of log type construction, very pleasing in appearance and having all modern conveniences, hot and cold water, shower baths, lavatory and flush toilets, gas for heating and cooking in the cottages, for heating only in the cabins.

The Fireworks Law

It is the general belief that youngsters and older folks, too, may legally send outside the state, procure firecrackers and other fireworks and then be allowed to shoot them. That is not the case. Here is that section of the Michigan laws covering the sale and use of fireworks:

"Any person who shall offer for sale, expose for sale or sell a retail, give, furnish, use, explode, or cause to explode, any firecracker, torpedo, skyrocket, Roman candle, Daygo bomb, or other fireworks of like construction or any fireworks containing any explosive or inflammable compound, or other device commonly used and sold as fireworks, containing nitrates, chlorates, etc., shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

That is the law. It was enacted because every year scores of boys and girls were killed and maimed and hundreds were seriously burned by fireworks. Another factor was that millions of dollars in damage in this state alone was annually caused by fireworks. The law was not passed to spoil the fun of children. Year after year the fireworks manufacturers increased the explosive power of their products. Year by year they became more dangerous.

Yes, those of us now in our sedate forties used to have a lot of fun with firecrackers, but the fun we had surely didn't compensate for the fingers and eyes lost by our playmates. Modern children who have so much done for them in the way of recreation should be willing to obey the fireworks law. Parents who can remember the old days of blasted fingers, singed eyebrows, lockjaw cases and fires caused by fireworks, should be willing to insist that the law be obeyed. And the law is that fireworks can not be sold or given away in Michigan, and can not be used except on special permits for special occasions.—Ingham County News, Mason.

Local Club Observes All-Kiwanis Night

DINNER DANCE AT INN WAS PLEASANT AFFAIR

All-Kiwanis night was observed by the local club Monday evening with a banquet at Shoppenagons Inn, the ladies of the members participating. Quite a number of guests were present.

Soft music was played by Miss Betty Parsons, violin, and Miss Ruth Kuhlman, saxophone, and Mrs. C. G. Clippert, the official club accompanist, accompanying. They also played several numbers during the banquet. Kiwanian Royal Wright led the club singing. He and Jesse Schoonover did a vocal duet.

Mrs. Roy O. Milnes sang a vocal solo and later sprang a surprise song that she and Mrs. Clippert had composed especially for the occasion. The words are as follow:

Down at the inn
Where the men hold Kiwanis.
Down at the inn

Where the men like to be.
They gave a party
And invited the ladies
Thank you dear Charley
And your committee.

1-2-3-4 Fish fries
They have them galore.
Ein, zwi, tri, fehr,
We count them o'er and o'er.

Yet they, today,
Gave a party to you and I,
But girls look out
We'll be left out
At the next fish fry.

It looks as tho the gosh darn girls had to rub it in even if it was at one of our ladies nights.

Well, we no doubt deserved it. Anyway what would our club be without our wives occasionally joining in with us? Eh, fellows?

This night all Kiwanis clubs in the international district—United States and Canada, were expected to be in session at the same hour, while the international convention was in session in Boston.

President Charles Moore gave a brief talk on Kiwanis and what it means to our community.

The evening was spent in dancing. Music was furnished by the Foki-Dots orchestra. It was a very enjoyable evening.

Merchants Defeat Alpena 7-1

EAST JORDAN HERE SUNDAY

Last Sunday the Merchants had a look at some real pitching and it suited them just fine. Combining five Alpena errors with seven timely hits they came out on the long end of the 7-1 score.

Grayling took a two-run lead in the first inning on hits by Bowen and Gothro. Sheehy then grounded out, second to first, the runners advancing a base from where they scored a moment later on Manager Jim Post's single.

Bud Wiseman led the hitting, getting two singles in four times at bat.

Clayton Anthony turned in a swell job of pitching, holding Alpena to five scattered hits, two of which were of the scratchy variety.

The Grayling infield played a tight ball, mixing up three double plays to stop scoring threats.

Shortstop Bob Hanson brought the fans to their feet when in the 9th inning, with runners on first and third and two out, he ran far back of second base, taking Botts' grounder and while running off balance made a perfect throw to Gothro, retiring the side to end the ball game.

This Sunday the hard hitting East Jordan team will be in town so buy your tickets now and come out to see a real ball game.

Don't forget that trip to Mackinac Island on July Fourth. The team will need your support for that game.

New Olson Store Opening Next Week

MOST MODERN SHOE STORE IN NORTH

The Esbern Olson shoe store is just about ready for occupancy and will open for business some time next week.

It is a handsome structure and Mr. Olson is receiving many compliments on it. It is built of cream colored hard brick and is one story in height with full 7-foot basement. It is 22 x 62 feet in size. The floor is covered with buff, marble linoleum, to harmonize with the shelving, which will be Duco buff and black. The front will be of vitrolite glass finish. A partition will separate the repair department and store room, with oblong glass inside windows.

The front will present ten-foot deep display windows, in which there are six glass plates. The window is lighted by seven 100-watt lamps.

The store will be heated by a modern hot-air furnace. Ten new red and black chromium plate fitting chairs are attractive and comfortable.

Mr. Olson says he intends to have the new store open for business some time next week but that the official opening will be held later.

Grayling Girl On Queen's Court

PAULINE MERRILL SHARING HONORS WITH CHERRY QUEEN

Grayling was again in the lime-light last Friday night when Miss Pauline Merrill was elected one of the ladies in waiting to the cherry queen at Traverse City.

Nine young ladies were entered, and Miss Jean Halmond of Leland was elected queen with Miss Pauline Merrill and Miss Betty Law of Traverse City as ladies in waiting.

It proved to be one of the hardest judging contests in many years according to the Master of Ceremonies because of the bevy of beautiful girls. The judging lasted 48 minutes with the last 15 just about deadlocked.

The judges were Mr. Fred J. Meinsinger, Meinsinger Art School, Detroit; Mrs. Leo J. Wing, Grand Rapids; F. Carlos Lopez, Mural Painter, Artist, nationally famous exhibitor in art exhibitions, of New York City; Mrs. Therese Flaherty, Detroit Public Library; Mr. Roy Barnes, Grand Rapids Herald Art Staff.

Friday afternoon was taken up with fittings for dresses and shoes. At 6:30 a dinner was given at the Country Club where the girls had the opportunity of meeting the five distinguished judges. From there they went to the Lyric theatre where the judging took place at 9:00. At the end of the judging the Queen and her two ladies in waiting were presented with gorgeous bouquets from the different greenhouses. At 10:00 the Queen and her court were whisked away to begin their round of picture taking duties. The festival will take place July 12, 13 and 14.

Grayling's entry in the festival is sponsored by the Grayling Chamber of Commerce and we know Grayling feels very proud of Pauline.

GRAYLING WOMAN GOES TO JAPAN

Recently Mrs. Matilda Foley Bishop, principal of the Shaker Heights Schools, Cleveland, Ohio, was in Grayling to visit her mother. At that time she confided in us the fact that she might have the privilege of visiting Japan as a guest of that country. We received from her this morning the following message:

Dear Editor:
Plans all made, steamship and other tickets in hand—will sail June 24th from San Francisco via Hawaii to Japan as a guest of the Japanese Tourist Industry and the Japan Government Railways as a gesture of good will on their part.

It scarcely seems real that so much good luck could come my way. Much of significance is in the making in the Orient. I'm glad and eager to see a part of the tragic drama.

Cordially,
Matilda Bishop.
Mrs. Bishop will be one of twenty young women for this good-will visit to the orient as guests of Japan. Many of our readers will recall that several years ago Mrs. Bishop visited Italy and other European countries. Her weekly stories of her trip were printed in the Avalanche, and she has promised to send us stories of this trip. So our readers may look for her interesting articles soon.

It is unlawful to sell or to use or explode firecrackers, toy pistols, blank cartridges or other explosives. Complaints have come to this office of the violation of this law. Anyone violating this law is subject to arrest.

Seaweed Is Used as Food Also for Healing Wounds

Many of the edible seaweeds contain valuable properties such as iodine, iron and other useful, curative marine salts. From the time of Pliny onwards they have been extolled for their nourishing and healing powers, according to an authority in London Answers Magazine.

On the west coast of Ireland a seaweed called dillisk, after being chopped up fine, forms the basis of a stew made with shellfish, milk, potatoes and oatmeal.

Lord Bacon remarked of the roots of the sea holly that if added to Malmsey wine in which the yolks of eggs had been beaten, "such drink will strengthen the back." Candy was also made from this plant in the Seventeenth century by Robert Burton, an apothecary of Colchester.

Sloke is a popular seaweed in South Wales, large quantities being consumed in the form of liverbread. It also possesses remarkable healing powers when applied over an open sore or cut.

Holiday-makers on most of our coasts are familiar with bladderwrack, the coarse seaweed which litters the beaches after a heavy gale. The bladders with which the plant is studded are full of a glutinous substance much used as an external embrocation after being steeped in spirit.

No Adult Cases Of T. B. Here

Announcement is made by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association that no active adult type cases of tuberculosis were discovered among the Crawford county citizens x-rayed by the Association recently. The report sent to Dr. T. R. Laughbaum revealed 8 healed childhood type cases of tuberculosis and one non-active case of adult type tuberculosis.

According to the bulletin, "Tuberculosis from 5 to 20" obtainable through the Association, "the result of an x-ray should not alarm one. Disaster follows only when the danger signals of the x-ray are ignored. Immediate and careful attention as ordered by the doctor will offset much of the harmful effects of the disease."

Childhood type tuberculosis is a quiet seldom noticed form resulting from a first infection with tuberculosis germs, say authorities of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. Dr. Laughbaum would add that following the doctor's orders and the health rules of lots of rest, fresh air, and nourishing food are generally sufficient to keep childhood tuberculosis from doing any damage. He adds that non-active adult type tuberculosis requires much the same treatment plus regular checkups and x-rays on the advice of a physician.

The sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals make possible x-ray clinics in every county of Michigan.

How Some Spiders Travel
With some spiders the method of traveling is a novel one, for when quite small it will let out a length of silken line from its body and this floats in the breeze. When sufficient is released the baby spider is lifted and carried a mile or more to a new haunt, says London Tit-Bits Magazine. You will often see a spider waiting patiently in the center of its web for food, day following day and no fly entering the trap, but the spider appears to grow and thrive. Certain spiders, after a good meal, are able to store a supply of food in their bodies, and the large garden spider has been known to live for 18 months without touching any outside food.

As the Camel Market
Before buying, a prospective camel purchaser examines the teeth to determine the animal's age. Marks of a good camel are good teeth, a good hump, which means plenty of reserve energy, and foot pads that are solid and not cracked by heat or rocks. Camels have seven stomachs and can travel seven to nine days in winter without drinking water.

Justice Must Be Dealt
"Justice," said Uncle Eben, "is always represented as blind, and 'fun de way some lawyers holler she mus' be deaf."

'Crying for Justice'
Clameur de Haro, the old Norman custom of "crying for justice," survives on the channel islands. It is used to resist encroachment on property. At the disputed spot, says a writer in Collier's Weekly, on his knees and before two witnesses, the aggrieved person cries: "Haro! Haro! Haro!" adding a plea to his prince for aid and a denunciation of the aggressor.

Six or seven thousand of Michigan's youths have arrived in Grayling and where there was calm and quiet at Portage Lake is now a bustling military camp. The boys are in military training, preparatory to leave for the Mexican Border. The 31st Regiment is ordered to leave for the front as soon as ready. The first wedding ever performed at the Hanson State Military reservation was that of Private Amos J. Ferris, and Miss Catherine Lowes, both of Monroe. The ceremony was performed Tuesday by Justice O. P. Schumann. Fully 500 comrades and friends of the bride and groom were present to greet the happy couple. The 31st regiment band played Lohengrin's wedding march. Another wedding was solemnized later in the day in the 33rd regiment when Private Floyd Petts and Miss Vita Clemence, both of Flint, were united in marriage. Rev. Thos. E. Swan, chaplain of the regiment, officiated.

Misses Beulah and Maxine Colleen arrived Wednesday from Detroit to spend the summer with their father, Alonzo Colleen.

The Salling Hanson Co. store has purchased a Ford truck, to take care of the Portage Lake trade, and Waldemar Olson is driving same.

Miss Edith Nelson of Cook's Hill, Mich., is visiting Mrs. Isaac Bouslay here for a few days, before going to Ferris Institute for the summer session.

Among the Grayling boys enlisted in the National Guard service are Clarence Johnson and Frank (Chuck) Woodruff. Both are with the 33rd regiment.

Richard S. Babbitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben S. Babbitt, was united in marriage to Miss Pearl Mae Ketcham at the home of the latter's parents, at LeRoy, Mich., Wednesday morning of this week. Mr. Babbitt is building a new home in the north end of town where he and his bride will soon be at home to their friends.

Mrs. Axel Sorenson and daughter Gerda Johanna and her mother, Mrs. J. Hanson, of Detroit, arrived Wednesday for a ten day's visit with friends in Grayling. Mrs. Sorenson was bookkeeper at the Sorenson Bros. store for several years.

Ten young ladies responded to an invitation to attend a shower at the home of Mrs. Holger C. Schmidt, to honor Miss Agnes Hanson.

A dry meeting was held Thursday evening at the Temple Theatre for the purpose of organizing a county committee. The meeting was mostly made up of ladies.

Miss Bessie Failing and Mr. Loren Douglas were united in marriage at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Esbern Olson, Rev. Aaron Mitchell, officiating, Saturday evening. While Miss Florence Smith played the wedding march the bride couple entered the parlor and stood beneath a large archway of smylax, intertwined with white roses. The wedding gown of white satin and Goretta crepe was most becoming to the pretty bride, her veil of white tulle being held in place by tiny white flowers. Miss Wilda Failing, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor and Mr. Clarence Smart as best man. Miss Margaret Douglas, cousin of the groom, was the flower girl. After the ceremony a delicious two-course dinner was served.

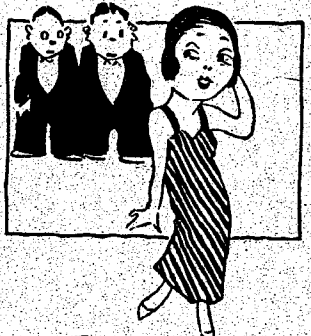

Miss Agnes Hanson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hanson, and Mr. Willard Campbell, of Mt. Pleasant, were united in marriage Wednesday evening at the Danish Lutheran church, Rev. J. A. Rodholm officiating. The church was prettily decorated in pink and white carnations and greens. The bride was pretty in a gown of white silk net with a tunic of pink embroidered net, and veil of tulle, fastened with tiny white flowers. Miss May Peterson acted as maid of honor and Mr. Carl Kriepke as best man. Immediately after the ceremony 100 guests assembled at the Danebod Hall to extend their congratulations. At about 9 o'clock the guests were invited into the dining room which had been made into a summer garden. Here they were served a two-course dinner. The young couple will make their home in Mt. Pleasant.

MAYBE SO

"Ma'am, may I be excused today? I'm not feeling well. Your husband let me fall off his lap."
"What?"
"Oh! I assure you ma'am it was accidental!"

SHE'S AN EXPERT

"They say she flirts outrageously."
"Outrageously? I should say she flirts divinely."

MEOW-OW-OW

"She's unpleasant, but dresses out of sight. She has a wonderful coat of fur."
"So has many an old cat!"

SUSPECTING PAPA

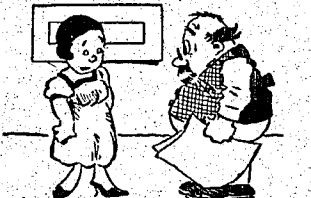

Daughter—I never knew a town to be so full of gossips as this! Dad—What indiscretion have you committed now?

MAY BRING IT BACK

"Mrs. Boyle is playing a mean trick on her husband."
"What is it?"
"He has been entirely bald for years and she is going to give him a book on the care of the hair."

HONK, HONK!

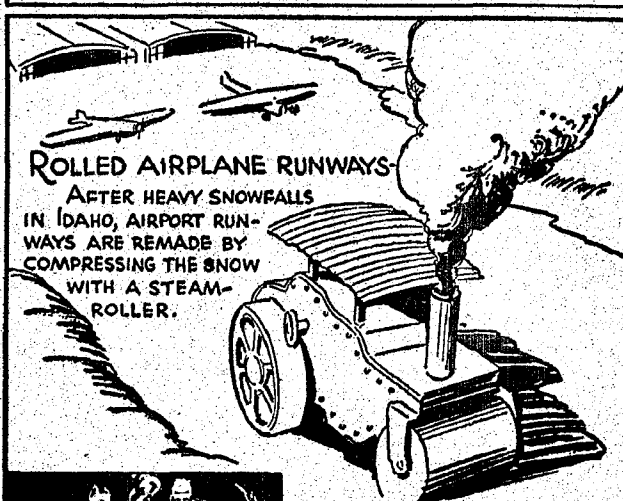

"I do wish you'd buy a new car, Pa. The old one is getting so shabby that I'm ashamed to be seen in it."
"Good. Now maybe I'll get a chance to use it myself occasionally."

SO INVITING

Mr. Justwed—This dessert tastes so queer. How did you make it? His Bride—I just followed the recipe in the book only I used the meringue you put on your face every morning when you shave.

In his book, "Descent of Man," Darwin wrote, on Page 239: "We must not fall into the error of supposing that the early progenitor of man was identical with, or even closely resembled, any existing ape or monkey." Darwin believed that man and the Old world monkeys had both, at some time far back in history, descended from a common ancestor, but he did not believe that man came through the line of the monkeys themselves. Darwinism is no longer in good standing with most scientific men, for many of his major assumptions have been proved unsound.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

KEEP YOUR SALT CELLARS CLEAN

THE other day I read of an eccentric old woman, rich and socially prominent, who went from house to house judging the occupants by the condition of the salt cellars on their tables.

If these were clean and well kept she put her stamp of approval on the household, but if they were not, regardless of the graciousness and charm of her hostess, she put them down as dowdy folks.

Not all of us, fortunately, are quite so critical, but in one sense we are. And it is good that we are. We are critical of the merchandise we buy and of the merchants from whom we buy it. It is our criticism which keeps the standards of goods and stores high.

One of the many advantages of advertising is that it invites us to be critical of the goods being advertised.

The advertiser assures us that his goods are good. He invites us to compare them with others. We do. If he relaxes for a minute and lets his standards drop, we discern it. We tell others. We cease buying his product.

He knows that even the finest of commercial reputations will suffer if a mere handful of people get wind of the fact that the goods are sub-standard. They will tell their friends. Soon a whispering campaign is under way. He suffers.

It is only by being careful at every minute of the day that his goods and service are up to high standard that the man who advertises can succeed.

You expect more of him than you do of the man who does not advertise. The non-advertising manufacturer or merchant can fall down in delivering quality and service. You may expect him to. But the man who advertises has to live up to his high obligation.

So you see that advertising is a great vigilance committee, established and maintained in your interest, to see that the men who aspire to sell you will always be worthy of your trade.

The merchant who advertises must treat you better than the merchant who does not. He must treat you as though you were the most influential person in town.

As a matter of cold fact you are. You hold the destiny of his business in your hands. He knows it. He shows it. And you benefit by good service, by courteous treatment, by good value—and by lower prices.

Be critical of advertised goods and stores which advertise. They want you to be critical. Advertising invites you to compare before you buy. It stands or falls on value alone.

Indians' Honey Bee Was Called White Man's Fly

The honey bee is not native to the United States, but was introduced here 300 years ago. There was no word for honey bee in the American Indian language and bees became known to the Indians as the white man's fly, relates a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

Authorities say that honey bees were introduced into New England in 1638 and that they likely were brought from Holland. These first bees were of the small type, commonly called black bees. They are common, but are not so popular among beekeepers as the larger kinds, such as Italian bees.

The fact that wild honey bees have been found in hollow trees and in caves in widely scattered areas of this country during the last 300 years has led to the popular belief that they are native. But those familiar with the history of the honey bee say that the first wild ones in America were swarms that left their hives in New England apiaries and flew off into the woods. As civilization spread westward across the country the honey bee went with it and often preceded the settlers.

Beekeepers refer to the different kinds of honey bees as races rather than breeds or varieties. There are many races and they are divided roughly into three groups, the Eastern, the European, and the African.

The race most often found in apiaries in this country is the Italian. These bees first were brought to America shortly before the Civil war. They are found wherever beekeeping is practiced commercially and are considered by a majority of keepers as the best of all races. They are credited with being easy to handle, good honey producers, and more resistant than other races to disease, especially European foul-brood.

Britain's Constitution

Not Like That of U. S.

Great Britain does have a constitution, but it in no way corresponds to ours. It is mainly unwritten and customary, but its development is marked by certain outstanding and fundamental laws, the principal ones of which are the following:

The Magna Charta, adopted in 1215, which secured annual parliaments and the equal administration of justice;

The Habeas Corpus Act, adopted in 1679, securing the liberty of the person;

The Act of Settlement, in 1701, providing for the Protestant succession to the throne;

The Act of Union with Scotland, 1707;

The Act of Union with Ireland, 1800;

The Parliament Act of 1911, which enabled the commons to pass certain acts without the concurrence of the other chamber;

The Government of Ireland Act, 1920, and the Irish Free State (Agreement) Act of 1922;

The Westminster Act, 1931, bringing to an end the control once exercised by parliament over the Dominions, and recognizing their equality of status with the British government and cabinet.

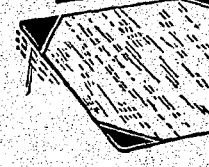

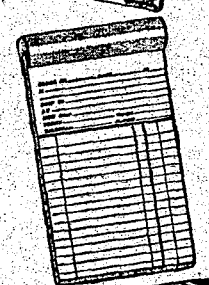

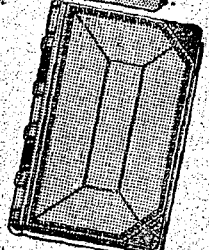

The constituent parts of the British constitution describe the sovereign, the legislative, the executive and judiciary.

Canada's Postal Service

Canada's first postal service dates back to the French regime, when letters of the governor and the intendant were carried by an appointed messenger, who was also permitted to carry mail entrusted to him by private persons. The fee allowed the messenger by the intendant commission was 10 sous for a letter between Quebec and Montreal, and 5 sous to Three Rivers, with proportionate charges for greater or shorter distances. The first of these couriers was Pierre de Silva, known as "the Portuguese" who received his commission from Raudot, the intendant, in 1705. When Canada came under British rule the first regular postal service was established in 1763 by Benjamin Franklin, then deputy postmaster general for the American colonies, who opened a post office at Quebec with subordinate offices at Three Rivers and Montreal.

Airport Notes

We are very sorry that our club has side-slipped a little on our news. The three boys picked to write our club news will be going into a tailspin if they don't write more news.

Two of the members have soloed, Menno Corwin and Tom Welsh. Instructor Hilton said that there are some more about ready to sprout their wings and solo. More power and less bumps to them.

Our night school has a very good attendance and the boys are learning something about navigation, we hope.

There has been a number of private ships stopping at the Grayling Airport.

Major Anderson and Major McKinney flew to Grayling in a new National Guard ship, that being one of the new North American observers. There will be five or six of these ships at the airport during the National Guard en campment.

A plane flown by Mr. Cummings stopped in at the airport last week.

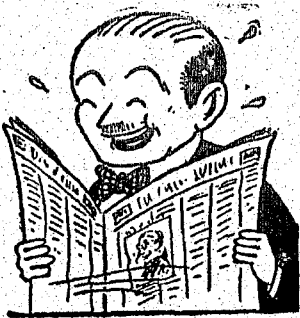

Hilton and one of his students flew down the AuSable river last Wednesday to snap a few pictures of a canoe party composed of the Sneakers Club.

Franklin Soultz was in Traverse City writing and flying his test for a student certificate.

Here are a few pointers and a bit of advice for each member of the flying club while at home:

DON'T
Groundloop out of a bathtub.
Tailspin off a ladder.
Power dive down stairs.
Take off from a banana peeling.
Sideslip out of a chair.
Taxi into an oncoming car.

Bridge Grafting of Trees
The art of bridge grafting of trees was taught to man by nature. Natural bridge grafting is seldom seen in trees. Artificial grafting of trees is one of the oldest arts of plantcraft. Early writers say that grafting of plants once was held as a professional secret. For many years artificial bridge grafting has been successfully practiced to save trees girdled by rodents or injured by disease.

Will Rogers Said:

—that he knew of a County superintendent of schools who was touring his country district; he wrote on the blackboard: "L-XXX" and asked a young Miss in the class what it meant, and she replied: "Love and kisses." Do you know that flies and mosquitos are the means of spreading more disease than any other means? Fly time is here again and with it comes these pests. How are your screens?

Crude Oil Is Nature's

Most Complex Mixture

Petroleum—crude oil—which is the raw material of the oil industry, is one of the most complex mixtures found in nature. It consists principally of thousands of different hydrocarbons, compounds of hydrogen and carbon. There are a smaller number of compounds containing oxygen, sulphur, or nitrogen in addition to the two basic elements.

The hydrocarbons are a sort of chemical stepping stone between the inorganic world and the complex organic substances that form living matter. Carbon has the property of linking its atoms with each other and with other elements in an infinite variety of forms. The simplest hydrocarbon is methane, a gas. It consists of four hydrogen atoms tied to a single atom of carbon.

Ascending the scale, writes Joseph Aitor in the Chicago Tribune, other compounds appear in which the carbon atoms are united in chains or rings or in more complex combinations of these two forms. Some of the waxes found in petroleum contain as many as 125,000 atoms in a single molecule, and artificial rubber, a petroleum product, is believed to have half a million of these building blocks of matter in a molecule.

In general the lightest hydrocarbons, those with the simplest molecules, are gases, those somewhat more complex are liquids, and the heavier and more complex molecules form solids at ordinary temperature. In crude petroleum the light gases and heavy solids are dissolved in liquid components of the mixture.

Fishing The Big Ones After Dark

It is time we fished for the big ones
Now the nights are getting warm,
While the caddis and the May flies
Are on the river in a swarm.

So today we boost our tackle
To a night-cast good and strong
That will hold a brown trout
Or a rainbow two feet long.

Then, when the sun is sinking,
It is time for us to go
Down past the rapid water
To where the current is deep and slow.

Grease the fly and light a stogie,
Smell the fragrance in the air.
Flit gun to drive away mosquitoes;
Incidentally, all care.

Quiet night with moon a-rising
A big trout will fill the bill.
We hear the splash of a muskrat
And the call of the whippoorwill.

The rise of a trout in an eddy,
We carefully make a cast.
A strike and a jerk,
Our "squirrel tail's" made him fast.

A thrill we'll long remember
As the trout runs to and fro
For it must be that big one,
At least a foot or so.

When at last we have him landed,
Our arm is 'most worn out.
We light a stogie, crank our Johnson
And carefully turn about.

On our homeward journey,
While we rest in perfect ease,
We watch the ripples on the water
And the moonlight thru the trees.

What a night to dream and wonder
What could be better for a lark
Than to be on the stream in the moonlight
Catching the big ones after dark.

Here's The Difference

Railroads operate on their own roadways, built and maintained entirely by the railroads.

Out of every dollar the railroads take in, taxes take 9 cents, and their rights-of-way take 23½ cents—a total of 32½ cents for roadways and taxes.

Highway motor carriers operate on public highways, built and maintained by taxpayers.

Out of every dollar taken in by the certificated motor carriers, 7½ cents (I. C. C.) goes for taxes of all sorts—and this represents all they pay for roadways and taxes.

Barge lines which operate on our inland waterways—the canalized rivers of the country—operate on "roadways" built and maintained by taxpayers.

Out of every dollar taken in by these inland waterway freight carriers slightly under 2 cents goes for taxes of all sorts—and this, too, represents all they pay for "roadway" and taxes.

Thoughtful people now believe that forms of transport which operate on and by means of facilities provided by the taxpayers shall pay for the use of such facilities and shall be on an equal basis as regards taxes—real taxes to be expended for the general support of government.

Laws now before Congress aim to remedy the present inequitable situation in the American transportation industry.

In substance, they call merely for a square deal for the railroads.

And a square deal for the railroads means a square deal for the taxpayers, too.

Non-partisan News Letter

Lansing—"Big city influence was responsible for the defeat of the new school state-aid bill and retention of the 1937 statute which provides $43,000,000 of state aid."

Such is the charge of the Michigan State Farm bureau in a statement signed by Stanley M. Powell, legislative counsel. The farmers' representative points out that outside of Democrat senators who voted solidly for the higher amount, the senate roll call shows that the $38,250,000 appropriation was opposed by ten Republican senators from the following cities: Detroit, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Saginaw, Port Huron, Bay City, Ann Arbor, Flint and Grand Rapids. In addition, Republican senators from North Adams and Blissfield voted also against authorizing the lower amount.

Nine Democrat senators voted as a block for the $43,000,000 appropriation, following the same strategy of Republican legislators in the 1937 session: Approve requests for more spending; the majority party is always held responsible for any deficit.

Opposing Republican senators justified their action on several grounds: (1) The house formula for $38,250,000 was unfair to cities; (2) The late Gov. Fitzgerald had pledged $44,000,000 for 1939-40.

What are "Frills"?

Into the school aid controversy, which will come to a showdown on the final legislative days, June 29 and 30, (or in a special session which Gov. Dickinson threatens to call) Michigan's chief state executive has injected the issue of school "frills."

Assuming the state government cannot afford to grant $43,000,000 aid to schools, what with a staggering deficit already on its hands and state employees facing a prospect of payless pay-days, Governor Dickinson has countered with a suggestion that school curriculums should be revised. He referred specifically to supervised playground activity and the teaching of music.

To Mr. Dickinson, who taught a two-room school at Potterville 40 years ago, these educational services could be dispensed with under emergency conditions.

To parents of young children, the answer would probably be otherwise. They want the latest of so-called "progressive" education which seeks to develop the child culturally as well as strictly according to fundamental three "R's". It's just a matter of viewpoint as to what constitutes "frills."

In New York state the legislature has likewise trimmed state aid to schools. A "save-the-schools" campaign is now under way by Parent-Teacher associations to prevent temporary closing of public kindergartens.

Cutting Teachers' Pay

"We can't expect 30 per cent of the teachers to teach for less than the average state clerk gets. Schools have made progress, and we want to maintain that progress," states Albert J. Phillips, executive secretary of the Michigan Education association.

Phillips agrees with Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction who has consistently espoused the cause of teachers, that a reduction in school aid from $43,000,000 to $38,250,000 would come out of teachers' salaries.

As these two educators see it, the public demands the retention of new services which have been added to school curriculums since Gov. Dickinson's teaching days close to the turn of this century: Music, playground supervision, home economics, and manual training, as four examples.

If economies must be made, parents would object to having these courses suspended or put on a fee basis, so the logic goes. Hence, teachers would have to accept a cut in pay.

In the last analysis, the whole school aid controversy comes home to roost right at the taxpayer's doorstep. The "buck" finally ends there.

Dillman's Dilemma

Upon the capable shoulders of Grover C. Dillman, budget director, has been put the responsibility of advising how the biennial budget may be kept in balance.

The 1937 legislature handed out state aid liberally and otherwise upped appropriations to the tune of $18,000,000 worth of red ink. In checking over the 1939 appropriations to state institutions and state departments, Dillman has just revealed that the state government's share of legislative appropriations represents a $500,000 increase over what they have been receiving for the present fiscal year closing this June 30.

The 1937 legislature, faced with excess appropriations, handed the "hot potato" to Gov. Frank Murphy with executive power to reduce allocations as he saw fit. The "recession" with its relief load spoiled any efforts made by Murphy and his budget advisor, Harold Smith, to head off a deficit.

However, the 1939 legislature has not granted such authority to Governor Dickinson. There is no question but that Dickinson, if he possessed the right of a financial czar, would wield a heavy axe on state spending. His personal habits of living have been Coolidge-like for thrift and economy.

Liquor Tag-of-War

Another tempest has broken out over prospective new curbs by the state upon the sale of liquor.

The governor is known to be dissatisfied with the failure of the legislature (and even the churches) to do anything about the all-inclusive "liquor problem."

While Dickinson, an ardent dry, would like to have the "roadhouse-evil" solved as far as it involves late closing and serving of drinks to minors, the legislature has shown no inclination to legislate further in this direction.

Among members of the state liquor commission, Chairman Orrin A. DeMass of Detroit and Commissioner Verold Gormley are inclined to let licensees alone without additional restrictions. Commissioner Muriel H. DeFoe leans towards a solution of liquor problems by administrative rulings and enforcement. DeFoe was a close advisor of the late Gov. Fitzgerald. He enjoys the utmost confidence of Gov. Dickinson.

The outcome of the inside tug-of-war will be watched eagerly. Politicians and liquor men alike are uneasy over what DeFoe may do. He is a potential headline maker.

Milk Price Fixing

Michigan's plunge into the sea of price-fixing will be made soon. The milk marketing commission has been appointed, and it may be expected to proceed toward the end of the plank.

As far as dairy farmers are concerned, the "water is fine."

An examination of the law (house enrolled act No. 88) shows that each member of a five-man board is limited to $3,000 compensation, plus expenses, and that the board may hire an executive secretary "and such clerical, office, attorneys, or other assistants as it deems necessary, and to fix their compensation."

The board will have the broad powers to create a milk marketing district, to fix minimum prices and to be paid to producers by distributors, and otherwise to regulate the milk industry.

A local milk marketing committee may be appointed by the state board for any marketing area or any two or more contiguous marketing areas. The local committee is given power to hire investigators and assistants necessary to carry out terms of the law.

"Reasonable check-offs" (or operating dues) may be taken from payments made to producers by distributors. A producer co-operative marketing association, if it furnishes not less than 50 per cent of the milk for such marketing area, may serve as the local milk marketing committee and thus qualify for the "check-off" financing. Ultimately, of course, this overhead cost will be passed along to the consumer in the form of milk prices.

Other Farm Laws

Among the other farm laws, enacted by the legislature this year, were the following:

Warehousing law for storage of Michigan farm products.

Advertising of Michigan-grown foodstuffs on a 50-50 matching of $20,000 of state aid by growers' funds.

Permitting owners of agricultural lands lying within the limits of cities and villages (500 to 7,000 population) to disconnect such land and attach it to the appropriate township.

Egg marketing law; an optional measure affair.

Marketing of Michigan apples.

Regulation of sale of "foreign-

News By Nose

We believe in always giving credit where credit is due, and certainly Grant Shaw started something when he started Shaw's Park. No wonder he hikes off to places unknown in the winter time; he has to recuperate after the strenuous summer he is living on the AuSable.

All joking aside, Shaw's Park is on the map in big letters. I'll wager there are more paying guests on an average within its confines than any other place of its size. Last week end Camp Grant was full to capacity and had to call on the reserve cabins to take care of the overflow. Lucy McDonald who is also caring for paying guests, was called on to help out.

Pat and Ned Wicks are also taking paying guests; I understand that Pat can put up a really fine meal—is particularly good on dumplings.

Will Shaw's new cabin has turned into a veritable hangout for the hungry and weary.

Then sort of sandwiched in between we have the Jim and Jessie Baileys—no paying guests. Jim says he isn't that lucky, he always does the paying. Directly back of them the tent dwellers have ceased to "tent"—they have built a cabin and even though they sing their songs are faint, still beautiful, but far less annoying to their neighbors. Thanks to Jessie Bailey.

What might be a long sad story, but thanks to the grand comradeship feeling all thru Shaw's Park, Jessie really accomplished something with no hard feeling. The tent dwellers asked Jessie last fall if she would bring them a Sunday paper, as I understand Jessie replied, "I will if you will do me a favor, don't sing around three o'clock in the morning." So everyone is happy. Just recently I asked Jessie if the tent dwellers bothered any more, and she told me they absolutely did not. The boys have improved their tent and have built their new cabin far back in the jack pines.

Dr. and Mrs. Slattery are frequent newcomers to the Park, and are constantly adding on to and beautifying their cabin.

Walter Shaw's cabin has undergone a coat of paint and looks quite spiffy.

Mrs. Graham, and John Graham of Whippoorwill spent several days in Lee cabin and expect to be on the river a lot this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bromley, also of Whippoorwill, expect to be up again soon for a long stay. In the meantime Whippoorwill is kept lively with the young folks. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sanderson and Mr. and Mrs. McCrea have had guests at Whippoorwill every week end since opening of trout season.

The first part of the opening season many trout were reported caught. Lately there seems to be a shortage, altho one of the local fellows, whom you all know, Fred Carr, came down to Whippoorwill one night this week with a fine catch, and it was on one of these mighty cold nights too. Someone ought to find out about his bait. He always seems to catch them.

Charlie Trosien, that happy-go-lucky bachelor, expects a crowd of his family soon. This is an annual event and Charlie is looking forward to entertaining them in the way he always does.

We hope the old Payson place will be kept old, like it is, there are so few lovely places left, but I'll bet Nell won't hurt things any, and maybe she will give us a lot of different ideas, so we can copy.

Pat and Ella's Tavern seems to attract the younger group, and for real hospitality and music you don't have to go very far, only a half mile from Grayling. Lovely green and red chairs and tables, a piano too. You can't beat Ella's for real friendliness.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPH CONTEST

Two hundred dollars in cash prizes will be awarded Sept. 1 to amateur camera enthusiasts in a Michigan Photo Contest sponsored for Grayling and Crawford county by The Crawford Avalanche.

That's the good news which comes from the Michigan Press Association, of which this paper is a member.

Winning photographs will be exhibited at the Michigan State Fair in Detroit, Sept. 1 to 10.

"Michigan is rich in photographic material," states Dr. Linwood Snow, manager of the State Fair. "I commend the newspapers for their enterprise. We are happy to cooperate in setting aside suitable space for a state camera salon."

First award will be $100 cash and a blue ribbon.

Second award will be $50 cash and a red ribbon.

Third prize will be $10 cash. Forty prizes of $1 each will be given for honorable mention.

An inexpensive camera may get just the snapshot that will win a grand award and state-wide distinction. This contest is open to everyone in Michigan who is an amateur camera enthusiast.

Professional photographers and employees of the State Fair are barred from the competition. Entries will be considered by a committee of competent judges to be selected by the Michigan Press association. They should be mailed to the Photo Contest Division, Michigan State Fair, Detroit, before August 15 when the contest closes.

Lake Fishing Season Opens Next Sunday

Reports of good prospects for fishing on the opening of the season June 25 are coming in from all parts of the state to the department of conservation.

Factors pointing to good catches for lake fishermen include no unusual amount of fish mortality during the winter and no extraordinary losses following the spring break-up of ice.

Concern over the late cool spring causing delay in spawning was dispelled when casual surveys by officials of the fish division of the conservation department led them to conclude that the bass and blue gills will have generally finished spawning in most lakes by opening day.

For the sportsmen who are rigging up their gear to get going at midnight for a fast start at bass casting and trolling or for setting out for bluegills at daybreak June 25, there is a word of caution needed. Standing up in the boat while casting, changing seats in the boat, loading and unloading—all provide hazards that take a number of lives each season.

Fishing is always dangerous—that's the reminder which state officials hope will be kept in sportsmen's heads and not just pasted in their hats. People get careless, and this is not confined only to first-timers. The experienced hands are guilty of rocking the boat because they think they can get away with it while getting that extra bit of "English" on a cast.

A lot of grumbling about poor catches will be avoided if an ordinary measure of fishing experience is practiced. Early morning hours and late afternoon and evening periods will find the people out on the water who do not need to protest—because that is when the fish are there, ready for action. The fellow who sits all day in the sun might better be taking a nap under a shade tree on shore.

LEWIS BROS. CIRCUS TO PRESENT SENSATIONAL EUROPEAN RIDER

Will Appear Here Friday, July 7

Miss Lucy Belli, a European sensational bareback rider and the only woman in the world to turn a double somersault on the back of a galloping horse, will appear here Friday, July 7 with Lewis Bros.' huge three-ring circus at City Park show grounds. Her engagement with this show marks the initial appearance of Miss Belli in the United States, and Lewis Bros. were only able to contract Miss Belli after her decision to leave her native country when Czechoslovakia ceased to be a nation of its own. Like many other famous artists there, and highly publicized people of that nation, Miss Lucy Belli decided to seek other fields, and through a relative in the United States made a contract and later agreed to appear with Lewis Bros. Circus.

In addition to Miss Belli's appearance, Lewis Bros. this season present such stars as Hank Linton, America's Rodeo champion for years, Jack West, the most famous of western picture stars, Dixie Star, who has appeared with nearly all of the stars of western pictures, the famous George Free family of acrobats, the renowned Nelson family of acrobats, the Padie Sisters, aerialists, Capt. Poley's high jumping horses, Maximilian Gruber's Jungle Oddities, Silvers Johnson and his twenty-five funny clowns, Capt.
